→ Course Description and Objectives

Following English 101, Composition 102 continues to focus on the skills necessary for college writing assignments. Basic college and workplace communication requires critical analysis of texts (writing, media, situations, and people). Likewise, full participation in public society requires effective expression of coherent and convincing ideas. That's why English 102 builds on the mechanics of reading, thinking, discussing, and writing about texts. Also, English 102 students learn how to locate, evaluate, cite, and document sources for a research paper. Upon successful completion of this course, students will possess the fundamentals to research and write an argumentative paper of extended length and depth. Finally, this specific 102 section deals with current events and international issues. Every Truman College classroom is populated with students and stories from around the world, so this workshop-style course uses constantly updated content from texts, research, and life experience, about our international cultures, conflicts, and challenges.

→ Required Texts for English 102-G

Claremont, Chris, and Brent Anderson. → X-Men: God Loves, Man Kills. NY: Marvel, 1982. (NOTE: Cheap, used copies and cheaper soft-cover editions of this book are available through on-line booksellers, and one copy is on reserve at the Truman College library for brief reading or photocopying on-site.)

← Muller, Gilbert H., ed. The New World Reader: Thinking and Writing About the Global Community. 2nd ed. Boston: Houghton Mifflin, 2008. (NOTE: Beck's should have used copies available, and one text is on reserve at the library for brief reading or photocopying on-site.)

X-MEN: GOD LOVES, MAN KILLS PREMIERE HC MARVEL.COM

ALSO: Students should prepare and keep an organized folder of handouts for this class, and everyone is strongly encouraged to purchase a college writer's handbook with grammar advice, research tips, and an MLA-style reference guide.

→ Summary of Educational Outcomes

These are the areas you should have mastered upon successfully completing this course:

- (1) RESEARCH — Locate, evaluate, document, and cite sources relevantly and effectively.
- (2) READING — Evaluate texts critically, identify elements of argument, articulate opposing viewpoints, and respond effectively with research and writing.
- (3) WRITING — Build on 101 preparation and ultimately write an informed, argumentative research paper of advanced work and thought.

ULTIMATE GOAL:

To develop the critical intellectual skills you need to move forward. Every single rule, expectation, assignment, and minute we spend in class pursues this goal.

→ City Colleges General Education Goals

English 102 feeds the following General Education Goals: GOAL 1 (...communicate effectively in written and oral forms), GOAL 2 (...demonstrate the ability to gather, interpret, and analyze data), GOAL 3 (...demonstrate the ability to think critically, abstractly, and logically), and GOAL 6 (...learn independently).

→ Attendance and Preparedness Policies

Success in a writing class depends on consistent preparation, attendance, and participation. Simply put: You did NOT sign up for a web class, and so you MUST arrive on time and ready for class. (Truman will have parking problems this semester, and therefore it's up to YOU to travel earlier, so you can arrive on time with your homework complete.) Lateness and absence also disrupt your teacher and classmates, who have a right to a classroom free from distraction.

So please come to class every time on time. (For record-keeping purposes, more than 10 minutes late or missing will constitute a full and unexcused absence.) You are allowed two absences for whatever comes up (sickness, personal business, etc.), but you will start losing 10 points from your Contributions grade for every absence thereafter – six absences means an automatic zero for your Contributions grade. The teacher can also subtract for repeated tardiness, so please carefully manage your own time. Consider also that most sessions will begin with a quiz right at the starting time listed on the schedule for this class.

ALSO: All assignments are due on the day specified on your syllabus or by the instructor. Late work will not be accepted for any reason, and you are required to turn in work on due dates, at the beginning of class, even if you are absent.

→ Course Requirements

(1) Full preparation of assigned readings: Read carefully, take notes, use a dictionary, look up terms in the library databases (e.g. encyclopedia), ask questions, consult a tutor, etc. (2) Active participation — everyone is expected to speak up, take notes, and think in class — you will be graded on this, too. (3) Completion of writing assignments, research exercises, free-writing, quizzes, etc., both in and outside of class-instruction time.

→ Basic Rules for the Classroom

(1) No cell phones or other forms of electronic interruption. (2) Classroom etiquette: Act with courtesy when class is underway; for example, if you're late, ask classmates AFTER the session for an update on what you missed; etc. (3) Civil discussion: No name-calling or any such viciousness over disagreements. (4) Food and drink are OK, but don't go overboard or disrupt with eating noises. (5) Dig into the class. Be enthusiastic if possible, or at least offer questions, comments, and even relevantly provocative statements when you have the floor.

→ Paper Details

(1) Students should prepare papers with a computer word-processing program and submit complete drafts in standard hardcopy format, stapled and thoroughly proofread. (2) Paper layout follows the basic Modern Languages Association (MLA) style, as follows:

(3) Acceptable formatting also requires double-spacing, 10- or 12-point typeface, and a one-inch margin on all sides. PLEASE PRINT ON ONLY ONE SIDE OF EACH SHEET OF PAPER.

(4) The Computerized Tutoring Center is available in Room L112 in the basement for orientation, e-mail set-up, technical assistance, and basic instruction. Questions can be referred to phone #773.907.4891 or e-mail eiehl@ccc.edu. It's up to you to take care of the technical details, though the teacher can help and will refer you to help.

(5) When you turn in a revision, ALWAYS staple ALL prior drafts behind your updated paper.

→ The Final Research Project

The final project will challenge students to mix critical thinking and writing skills, grounded in solid research. Class exercises will progressively introduce the citing and documenting of sources by the MLA system. Students will eventually choose a final argumentative topic relevant to the course theme of current events and international issues.

→ General Criteria for Evaluating Papers

Analysis, Research, Documentation, Critical Reading & Thinking, Correct English, Proper Manuscript Format

The instructor will explicitly spell out which areas are emphasized in every assignment.

NOTE: (1) Papers must be typewritten in standard, grammatical English. (2) Papers are due at the time specified on the syllabus and by the teacher.

→ City Colleges “Active Pursuit” Policy

In order for students to remain in English 102, they must actively pursue the objectives for this course. At midterm, any student who does not meet the following criteria for active pursuit will display a lack of interest in successfully completing the course and will, therefore, have to be administratively withdrawn from this class.

- A student must complete and turn in all major writing assignments that are due before midterm.
- A student must have Class Participation and Freewrite/Quiz grades of 75% or higher.

If any student fails to do the above, then it is his or her responsibility to contact the instructor prior to March 18, 2009, and indicate his or her serious intent to pursue the course by explaining any unusual circumstances. The teacher will then be able to determine whether the student can continue. Being issued an ADW will have consequences on your grades, financial aid, and other aspects of attending Truman. Simply attending classes, but not producing work and/or participating, does not constitute active pursuit.

→ Plagiarism

According to The St. Martin’s Guide to Writing, “Plagiarism is the act of using the words and ideas of others as if they were your own.” An intentional act of plagiarism involves the attempt by a student to dodge all or some of a writing assignment by trying to pass off someone else’s words as one’s own. This will result in automatic failure of the course.

On the other hand, unintentional plagiarism involves the use of others’ text by accidental or careless drafting, without acknowledging the source. To avoid plagiarism: Whenever using a source word-for-word, always be sure to quote carefully and appropriately. And whenever using others’ ideas in general, be sure to cite your source. Overall, the great majority of the writing in a paper should be your own original thought and wording.

Using web resources and in-class writing to compare with multiple drafts, the instructor will check for plagiarism when necessary. Keep consistent by doing your own work on time every time, and be careful when using sources of any kind. Careless work that plagiarizes will result in failure of the assignment.

→ Disclaimer

All assignments and scheduling are subject to changes per class progression and instructor choice. Also, specific readings/exercises might change if alternatives arise.

→ FINAL THOUGHTS

Overall, you are strongly urged to consult the teacher during office hours with any questions or requests for assistance that you cannot fit into class time. Moreover, resources exist throughout Truman to assist and enhance your education; for example, writing tutors are available at the Tutoring Center in L129 (contact ajohnston@ccc.edu, or find out more under “Student Services” on the Truman web site). The teacher will sometimes recommend or require tutoring sessions in order to bring a paper up to passing-grade. Also, consider your teacher a resource for tutoring, course advice, and career counseling.

→ A Personal Statement: I know your life includes employment, family, and many other pursuits beyond this class, but please do your best to commit the time and effort required. Likewise, I will do my best to be a resource for your success. This course will be challenging, but I am here to help. It’s my goal to see every student complete the semester successfully. I look forward to working with you to produce your best writing, and I hope you enjoy Spring 2009!
—Benjamin Ortiz, Assistant Professor, Truman College
